

When You Don't Feel Blessed

Two thousands years ago God's people felt unblessed. Sure, they repeatedly read the promises God pronounced upon their ancestors Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Where were the blessings? A foreign government manipulated their lives and ruthlessly repressed all yearnings for independence. Poverty afflicted almost everyone and religious leaders used their influence for self-gratification.

There was this promise given by God that "All these blessings will overtake you." No one could change a word of this promise yet everybody felt unblessed.

What God predicts always happens. "What I have said that will I bring about, what I have planned, that will I do." So, God's irresistible blessing was in the process of overtaking His people.

On what we call Christmas morning, "God sent His Son." The promised Blessings arrived!

Dear Christian friends, God's blessings always overtake people willing to overlook unfelt blessing. Cling tightly to the Source of every good and perfect gift. "Those who hope in me will not be disappointed."
